you can’t read yourself better, or build up enough knowledge to recover; you have to achieve it passively by living your life without limiting yourself because of anxious thoughts.